League To Ask Nine Guestions Of Candidates

A prepared list of nine questions that will be asked of candidates for the Escanaba City Council was forwarded today to the candidates, personal appearances at a candidates' meeting to be held Monday, March 29, in the study hall of the Junior High School at 8 p. m.

The League has advised the candidates that only the nine prepared questions will be asked and no questions will be asked from the floor. Each candidate will be given an allotted time to answer each question. The moderator will be Miss Helen Masterson.

Candidates are William E. Anderson, Herbert Carlson, Edward Cox, H. Chris Nicholson and Harlan J. Yelland.

The nine questions that will be asked follow:

1. Give a brief biography. (2 min.)

2. What do you feel the next step should be towards solving Escanaba's electrical problem? (2 min.)

3. Should the office of safety Fund Campaign director be continued in its present form or should the fire and police departments be separated? Good Evening ...

HEAD-IN-SAND-A couple of my wellneaning friends, in discussing the difficult and highly controversial subject of Senator Joseph McCarthy, suggested that McCarthy is a creation of "newspaper publicity." "If the newspapers didn't print all that stuff about him, he would be ignored,' they said. "Why don't the newspapers give him the silent treatment?

Without debating the failure or success of McCarthyism let us examine the subject in the light of the obligation of a free press to bring to the people the whole story-the "news." And the senator from Wisconsin is news because of what he does and what he says. From the standpoint of news alone, it is no more possible for a responsible and unpiased press to ignore McCarthy than it is to turn a deaf ear to the atomic bomb or to debates in the U.S. Senate.

GROWING SPIRITUALLY

E. STANLEY JONES

THE THREE ENDS OF THE ATONEMENT We cannot go on to the way to grow until we settle the question, To whom do I belong-to myself or to God? You are not primarily called to do, or to be; you are called to belong: "Called to belong to Jesus Christ." (Rom. 1:6, Moffatt.)

Yes, you say, but where do I get the strength and power to overcome the tyranny of self-preoccupation? "Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" And the answer follows close on the heels of the question. "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord." The three ends of the atonement could be named as: (1) "He gave himself for our sins"-redemption from what we have done, the past; (2) "to rescue us from the present evil world"-redemption from the dominance of the present evil herd (Gal. 1:4, Moffatt) and (3) "He died for all in order to have the living live no longer for themselves" (II Cor. 5:15, Moffatt) - redemption from our selfcentered preoccupation.

The ends of the atonement then are three: To save us from the guilt and power of the past; to save us from the dominance of the surrounding herd—an evil social order: to save us from ourselves-E. C. Garden City, Kan., three inches of dust fell and then rain turned the area into mud quagmire. The situation is acute and many farmers are leaving to seek employment in nearby cities. Stores no longer able to grant credit are closing. Many farmers are asking for immediate federal aid. There's some hope in the offing—the U. S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecast promises abovenormal rain during the rest of March. But if the rain doesn't materialize, new "dust bowls" seem certain to make life miserable for the farmer. Some farmers just aren't taking any chances much as 1500 gallons of water per minute, but they are too expensive for the poor farmer.

The Escanaba Daily Press first made its bow to the people of Escanaba as the Escanaba Morning Press on March 20, 1909. Its publishers were Herbert H. Little and

The original partnership continued for a few months when the company was reorganized. Mr. Little retired from ownership.

Before the Press entered the local field, one daily newspaper and three weekly newspapers had been serving the community.

Starting with a single linotype machine, a few cases of type and a hand fed press in a former sa-Street, the Press had an initial payroll of $26 per week. This was divided between a linotype operator-printer, one girl and one boy. The owners served without pay, "trading out" their living.

For 12 years Mr. Norton served as reporter, editorial writer, circulation manager, advertising manager, ad taker and, of course, publisher, without a day's vacation and without salary, other than his it to friends. "keep" which he often described as rather slim at times. The Press bought out the evening newspaper, Escanaba Mirror, in 1920.

Two years after the Press was organized it had outgrown its former saloon building quarters and the plant was moved to a portion of the present Daily Press building. The building later was purchased by the newspaper company and was completely remodeled in 1929 and 1930.

On Oct. 2, 1947 the Escanaba Press converted from a morning newspaper to an afternoon newspaper, publishing daily except Sunday.

New Press Installed

A new 20-page Goss press was installed in March, 1951. The new press, high speed and modern in every respect, had been ordered earnest. by Mr. Norton several months ordered by Mr. Norton were likewise made at that time.

Today the newspaper has a circulation of 10,400 and completely covers Delta and Schoolcraft counties, with heavy circulation in Mackinac Countles. In addition to the main plant and offices at Escanaba, the newspaper maintains branch offices at Gladstone and
